IoT or Internet of Things refers to the inter-networking of physical devices, embedded with electronics, software and sensors, and that can be accessed through a web interface. IoT has given the famous world of smart homes and smart cities. But, the term IoT was hardly used a few years ago, but then we talked about smart cars, smart grids, smart manufacturing systems, smart agriculture, etc. At present, IoT has become one of the fastest growing areas and has been receiving tremendous attention globally. An IoT system is anything that can be connected to the Internet. Things refers to the inter-networking of physical devices, embedded with electronics, software and sensors, and that can be accessed through a web interface. Technically speaking, the concept of IoT is centered on the idea of “things” being able to connect to the Internet and perform web-based interactions, enabling these objects to communicate data to each other.
