ANSYS engineering modeling and 3D design software provides product modeling solutions with unsurpassed scalability and comprehensive multiphysics ... more details Types of printers. There are two types of printers: internal and external. Internal devices are placed inside the computer, they work with the software. The external printer is connected to the computer via a USB cable. Internal printers are dot matrix, laser and inkjet. Dot matrix printers are older models of printers that use two needles to make lines on paper. The print speed of dot matrix printers is slow. This is the easiest and cheapest way to print.
