800x480Q: What happens when you store anything on a credit card? Let's say you're going to buy a package of crackers from the store. You have a nice $20 in your pocket, so you're going to go to the counter and hand the cashier $20. You also have a credit card in your wallet, so you hand the cashier your credit card and say, "can you put this on my account?". What happens after that? Does the store take all the money out of your bank account so you can't pay for anything else for a while? Or does the store pay some kind of commission to the bank, and then you pay it back when you next pay your bill? A:

---

You can use a Credit Card for any cash transactions over $50. That in mind, your $20 purchase from the store will either be debited from your account, or the card would go into "pending" status, pending authorization. If the card is approved for $20 cash, the cash will be debited from the card. If the card is approved for $19 cash, then the store assumes the $1 was to be paid by the buyer. If the card is not approved to take cash, then the store will have to get a written authorization for that transaction in the mail. Q: Strange Laravel error in Live Mode; 1 day ago worked fine I'm making a Laravel site. I'm working in a dev mode and everything is fine. The website is live on server at: It functions fine for me 3da54e8ca3
