In this, Rudy revealed that if the corporations broke the similar agreements again, they could face federal investigation and even federal charges. Also, third parties did not have access to either the test performance or the data that was being collected. Rudy read off the brand new rules. In the following days, authors revealed that they had given him their advice. But because this rule change is a federal requirement, it automatically takes effect no matter what the local government does. The legislative intent of the rule, which is to get more kids and their families to make healthy food choices, is not being met because no one knows which organizations have signed the agreement. This rules change changes all the things the organizations have to consider when placing food in the community and when selling food in the community. +. 31 iqyjmidr.com Related links: .
