The open world in the game can be accessed with the Vive's entire arm tracking range. Now, you don't have to spend hours playing tetris and waste other people's time. Just come home and play the game! WHY ARE THEY SO PRICEY? The dev team has collected over 10 years of successful hardware and software startups and has experience working with large hardware companies (FUSION and HTC). ...how it all began, let's go back to 1993 Sunday 1.12.12 - Nate Aubert: Crunk Radio 2.18.12 - "I Love Rap": +20 Mon Sep 12 01:11:54 CDT 2012: Hello Kade! I'm Nate, you've heard me on the radio, online or in the studio, seen me live. I blog, I do rants and raves, I rap. I was born bored (asked by my brother) and I have no memory of my parents. I'm a 40 something year old white cat. I'm not sure that last one holds anymore. Namely, I am making fun of white and brash hip hop "culture" and it's appropriation of black culture which is odd considering most of these cats are white (but we'll get to that later). I'm trying to figure out what to do with my next life which probably involves making comics (I've done a few already - Namely, to be more of a regular working parent, you know? - go in the office every day and check email and pay bills on time. The free time I do have I spend with my cat trying to make her a better individual. I've failed to my knowledge. She hasn't changed a bit in 9 years, still pure white with occasional blue eyes. Me? Probably a different story. Anyway, this is my blog. What I do is somewhat random. I

The best launch ever from D3! Edit to expand on the response to the 60 FPS title: While I can not personally speak to the claims of 60FPS I would say that it is in no way a slow game, however the ability to guarantee 60FPS is necessary to eliminate input lag of any sort. Due to the fact that Inertial Drift uses openGL this means that the developer of Inertial Drift has to double up on efforts to ensure the games frame rate is always at 60FPS. It is impossible to have 60FPS and do less than 0.5ms of input lag. This
