A: A few things to consider: you only need to download the MSC file, not the full package (just change the "Select Files to Download" from "Select All Files" to "Select Files") you don't need to download them one by one, the MSC file will list all of the components and that will give you access to the entire DVD, not just a single component You don't want to just copy that MSC file, you want to merge all the components so they are one file, with the original DVD the I would assume that it's DVD version still intact, but other than that a non CD-DVD "merger" software might do. evidence that Watson's allegations of sexual harassment were "frequently repeated" from worker to worker. The trial court found otherwise, concluding instead that there was ample evidence to demonstrate that the alleged incidents of sexual harassment were isolated. This conclusion is supported by the fact that Jackson did not regard Watson as a favored employee, but "wanted to do [Watson] in" instead of supervise her. Given these facts, we believe that Jackson's repeated denials of any knowledge of Watson's allegations were properly considered by the trial court in evaluating the overall credibility of his testimony. [6] The fact that a state employee is excluded from the protection afforded under a federal employment discrimination law does not, of course, place the employee at a greater risk of losing one's job than a private-sector employee. [7] For a more thorough discussion of this subject, see supra part I. [8] Although Watson's breach of contract claim and her discriminatory discharge claim were tried together, the jury's verdict on the breach of contract claim was in the amount of $45,000. Watson did not move for a new trial on the breach of contract claim, nor did she argue on appeal that the jury's $45,000 verdict on this claim was inadequate. As a consequence, we do not consider it. See Brown v. C.F. Mobil, 78 Wn. App. 406, 414, 896 P.2d 710 (1995) (a party waives an issue of inadequacy of a jury's damages award by failing to move for a new trial). [1] Judge Madsen actually assigned case number
