“The guys in the studio have gotten a little more credit than they deserve for a lot of the amazing things we’ve done in FIFA this year,” said Matt Prior, Senior Lead Producer on FIFA 22. “There’s some pretty cool tech that we’ve been able to implement this year, and one of our biggest focuses has been on improving the play and fluidity of our gameplay.” Tutorials and Player Profiles players can now learn about and even try out new players. With the introduction of Player Profiles, fans now have a chance to get to know the names behind their favorite players and see what they’re like on the pitch. There’s also the introduction of Player Goals, which dramatically improves the presentation of player goals on the pitch. With Player Goals, it’s easy to see where your favorite player has hit a shot in the past. Players can be easily distinguished in this view, making it easier to find them in their future goals. The dynamic presentation in the top corner will again be a focal point of the presentation for FIFA 22, displaying an exact representation of the size and orientation of the target. This includes the angle, distance, and size of any on-target chances. Across all modes in FIFA 22, fans will have the chance to try their favorite new items from FIFA Ultimate Team, including the FIFA Ultimate Team Connected Ultimate Player. The Ultimate Team Connected Ultimate Player features the same individual player ratings and attributes as the real player, as well as a significant additional gameplay experience. FIFA 22 will also bring back the core set of Transfer Magic items for the first time in years, offering a deeper level of customization than ever before. Additionally, FIFA Ultimate Team will feature the major changes that were introduced in the FIFA 20 Ultimate Team release, including a much more intuitive and accessible interface, as well as a new and improved approach to Ultimate Team, giving fans more control and customization than ever before. The FIFA Ultimate Team submission system has been significantly updated, allowing fans to put in more trade offers and make more transfers. Off the pitch, fans will be able to use the Level Editor in FIFA Ultimate Team and in-game to create their own custom content to show off their creativity. And in FIFA Ultimate Team, fans will have a chance to participate in the “League of Legends” mode, a game mode in which

The game features the English Premier League, the European Champions League, and the World Cup. The game is played from a third-person view and includes over 1,000 licensed football players. FIFA's gameplay is the most realistic, with thousands of moves and subtle animations, spectacular effects, and realistic passing, dribbling and shooting. In addition to the more than 1,000 players licensed by FIFA, there are over 40,000 stadium models throughout Europe, the Americas, and South Africa. It is possible to play as a club or an international team. EA SPORTS FIFA has over 180 officially licensed teams and over 100 others in the game, including six of the top 10 English clubs. Players can develop a game-style team by choosing from available player names, numbers and hairstyles. The game includes many new features such as realistic passing, dribbling and shooting, and includes the new Network Generation Engine (NGEN), which allows two players to face off against each other in a game, or connect to a friend through a social networking website. FIFA is the most successful game in the history of the video game industry. As of July 2009, over 123.5 million copies have been sold since the first game was released in Japan.
