The attempted rape of a five-year-old girl in England has outraged the public and shocked residents. After the rape attempt on the girl in Finchley, north London, failed, the culprit reportedly carjacked the nearby M25 motorway where he then tried to jump off the motorway. Police later found the man in the south of England. The Royal Mail reported that on Saturday a postman noticed a man on his bike near the motorway. The postman said he saw the man in his early to mid 20s with dark shaggy hair. He looked at the postman and then sped off towards the west. The postman then notified police to get the area checked for the suspect, according to a police spokesman. Police have reportedly not yet commented on whether the suspect was known to the victim. The attempted rape took place at about 11:30 am on Friday when the girl was walking with her sister in the Bounds Green area. She was grabbed and pushed into the railings of a bus shelter by a man who tried to assault her, the Daily Mail reported. When his attempt was unsuccessful, he took off with the child's sister, according to the paper. The paper claimed the incident "triggered public outrage, with people calling for a public hanging" for the attempted rapist. Saturday's incident, the first of its kind in England, reportedly sparked a huge manhunt. Deputy Assistant Commissioner Ged Fitzgerald reportedly said: "The abduction of a child in this way is the most heinous, despicable crime." The woman and the child were thought to have been in danger, and Fitzgerald called the fact that the two women were not harmed "a major success." He praised police for their swift response to the incident. The woman and girl were reportedly not hurt in the incident. Fitzgerald said he was confident the police would find their suspect

The views, opinions and positions expressed in these articles are those of the authors and do not necessarily represent those of Energized Learning. Intuit and TurboTax have a strong attachment to each other.

Even though TurboTax is a freeware, some of its features include the QuickBooks Point of Sale (POS) program. The same can be said of Intuit GoPayments, a payroll processor for small businesses. The recent birth of Intuit Payroll Flow can be considered as the best money making tool that Intuit has to offer, as it allows you to integrate your bank account, and payroll account, and some other facets to make your business a fully functional one. Intuit Payroll Flow (IPPF) pricing: A key feature in this tool is that it comes with a free version that allows the user to run his monthly payroll and update contacts with employees once every month. Plus, the team that powers this tool is offering a free 30 day trial. This is beneficial as you get time to verify the service before you consider paying. This will help you to understand the power of IPPF before spending a lot of money. IPPF integrates with QuickBooks and W2-Employee_IntuitPayrollFlow_Free_30_Day_Trial Besides QuickBooks, the tool offers payroll and contact management for Google Contacts, and any other contact info in the system. This is impressive as it would be possible to sync contacts from contacts.microsoft.com, and any other service as well. IPPF is powered by a simple to use interface that is easy to access. This can be achieved by clicking "Start" which will give you options to select the program settings. You can also download all the data from the software as a csv file or a different format. IPPF allows you to customize your payroll and contacts, and also create new payrolls within the software. Customizations can be made in the financial, job description, and personnel configurations. TurboTax: This is a tool that allows you to customize your tax return, and also update your documents with a few mouse clicks. Filing system: TurboTax has been used by many clients, and the recommended plan to cover your taxes is to go for this tool, plus the TurboTax Express. This may be a costly plan, and you may find a lot of unnecessary information that you might not need. Therefore, it is better to go for the plan of TurboTax b7e8fdf5c8
