On the brink of success, the U.S. Army's offensive to clear out Taliban-controlled territory along the Pakistan border (Pakistani, not American) is faltering with a heavy loss of life, prompting U.S. military officials to devise a new strategy called “The Protector.” The Pentagon is investigating whether an Army aircraft was responsible for shooting down an unmanned drone carrying a human rights worker from Iran to the Afghan-Pakistani border a few days ago. It is unknown whether the U.S. military or Pakna Air Force shot down the Iranian Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAV). But, the UAV was used to deliver humanitarian aid to the Paksitan-Afghan border area.

At the time of the shooting, the drone was less than a mile from its target. The UAV was shot down as it

Q: JQuery ui scale draggable images I'm using JQuery UI in order to drag images on a website I'm developing. I don't want it to scale the image, so I set the `imageWidth` and `imageHeight` options to make it look tiny (`width:60px;height:45px`). The problem is that when I drag it scales the image up to the original size. How can I stop this? Thank you! A: You can bind both `resize()` and `start()` events (assuming you're using `draggable`).

$(function() { $(
"#mydraggable"
).draggable({ start: function(
event, ui ) { $( this ).css( "z-
index", "20" ); }, drag:
function( event, ui ) { $( this
).css( "z-index", "100" ); } } ); $( "#mydraggable"
).draggable( "option",
"zIndex", 100 ); $(
"#mydraggable" ).resizable(
"option", "zIndex", 20 ); } );
(with values 60 and 45) If

you don't want to bind this event, you can create your own stop() function.

$(function() { $(
"#mydraggable"
).draggable({ start: function(
event, ui ) { $( this ).css( "z-
index", "20" ); }, stop:
function( event, ui ) { $( this
).css( "z-index", "100" ); },
drag: function( event, ui ) { $( this ).css( "z-index", "100"
);

What's New In Adobe Photoshop 2021 (Version 22.1.1)?

Q: How to do pip install -r requirements.txt in jenkins? I have very specific requirements in my pip requirements.txt. Is there a way to directly install these requirements from within a Jenkins build job? The current context is that my repo is a war file, and I need some of the pieces from what my build jobs deploy to my instance for easy access. This is for uploading to S3. A: You can use the --requirements flag to tell pip to install your requirements in that context. For example, to install the requirements you listed as a file: `pip install --requirements requirements.txt` You could then also use the `--no-index` to disallow pip to look for indexes (the links where to go to get the additional requirements). `pip install --requirements requirements.txt --no-index` While this means that you have to specify both options at the command line, it also allows you to use build-tasks to run this command in a Jenkins job and pass variables to it. Is Your WordPress Theme Maintenance Free? One way in which you can keep your WordPress site maintenance free is to use a WordPress theme which is maintenance free. This will reduce the time which you would normally need to spend working on a WordPress theme which isn't maintenance free. Read through this tutorial to find out which of your WordPress themes are maintenance free and which aren't. When you make a purchase of a WordPress theme, you'll often receive an email and possibly a good deal of additional communications. One of the most common questions I get is - What is the best WP theme? There are several reasons for you to ask this question: Sometimes you may be looking to find the best WP theme because your provider is limiting you to a limited range of WordPress themes to work from. It can often be a waste of money to choose one or two features of a WordPress theme which are important to you, but would have no effect on the functionality of your site. You may simply be looking for a new theme to work from and don't want to be tied to a particular theme. In any of these cases, the answer is not a simple one. What is the best WordPress theme? The answer is going to depend entirely upon the specific case in which you are making your decision. I'm
