I was playing the iOS/Android version of Wreck-it Ralph and there was a small piece of the level that I can't seem to get rid of, on a side note, if I load the level it still displays the same wall/wall glitch. How do I get rid of that. Thanks. A: This answer comes from I would also think it's probably not a good idea to use a wallet for online transactions if you only use that wallet for online transactions. It's probably better just to have some btc on a usb and trade it locally between the 3 devices. Or is there something special about the github wallet that is linked with the coinbase account? Maybe you could use it for both, and use the coins to buy things in the fiat currency of your choosing. This would allow you to slowly convert all of those coins into something you want. At some point, when prices in BTC flatten out, you could split your coins up into two groups of coins, one you hold, and one you sell. That would allow you to increase your money supply, while maintaining some level of stability in your holdings. The mirror wallet is interesting (wink wink). Are you using it for trades that affect the price of the coins? I do a few trades that move the price of the coin, and I keep 5% of my coins in a private wallet
