documented vasculogenic impotence, symptoms associated with vasculogenic impotence were the most common symptom of impotence (82.3%). In over 90% of these cases, evaluation of patient responses to penile tumescent stimuli confirmed the presence of vasculogenic impotence. In the remainder of the study population, most patients complained of having nocturnal erections; at least half of these patients had a normal response to penile tumescent stimuli. Vaginal examination, electromyography, and endocrine testing were normal in 97, 97, and 100% of the patients, respectively. It is suggested that penile tumescent stimuli should
